"Our future is fragile"
Lasky

The principles I believe in:

- Good design changes the world.
- The future of aviation is based on solar energy.

How?

- Combining existing innovations with good design.
- Solar powered manned flight is proven possible and is being developed. Fewer heavy batteries need to be installed and solar energy should not only be used for propulsion but also to influence the boundary layer around the wing for higher efficiency. The optimum ratio of propulsion and boundary layer manipulation results in higher overall efficiency.

Why?

- Because the technologies already exist.
- Then we have a duty to move aviation in a sustainable direction of development.
